Memorial Day

As people gather quietly throughout the country to honor our heroic dead, their example and patriotism revitalizes the purpose and strength of the living nation. We owe everything to these fighters who now belong to the ages. To cherish and defend what they so dearly won, is a privilege and a duty. Justice and peace have to be won and enforced against a constant foe and this is a task for determined citizens. We draw from our past the example of dedication and honor.

Dear friends,

One thing is true of every business or profession. If the public is pleased with the service given, patronage develops in the natural course.

We recognize that we are entitled to patronage only as we please those we serve. In that sense, this community has built our funeral service.

Our part in the plan is to do everything possible to please.

Respectfully,

Carl C Cornwell
